Typical Rooms

Trinity College has a wide variety of student rooms, and it is likely you will experience a range of accommodation types during your time here. The links in the College Plan on this page will take you to information about typical rooms available in each area, as well as the groups of students who are eligible to live there.

If you are a prospective student, you will be asked to apply for accommodation by completing a form prior to your arrival. We will allocate your room via a ballot based on the information you provide. New undergraduates can see the rooms which are included in their room ballot by clicking on any of the links entitled ‘Undergrad freshers’.

If you are a current undergraduate, you will find information on each area which is included in your ballot (for second, third and fourth years) by clicking on the ‘Main Ballot’ links.

Undergraduate students accompanied by their spouse/children who wish to apply for a College flat should contact the Accommodation Office.
Undergraduate Fresher rooms

Before you come up as a new undergraduate, you will be asked to rank your room preference by rent (lower, medium, and higher bands). The rent varies based on a number of factors, including location, size and facilities (there is not necessarily a certain type of room which you can expect to find in each band). You will be given the opportunity to supply any other relevant information about your accommodation needs or preferences. If there are specific medical requirements relating to accommodation, it is important that you raise this at an early stage to ensure that we will be able to take them into account before we allocate the rooms.

Please note that rooms are assigned in an order determined by a random ballot, so depending on where you come in the list, you may not be allocated a room which meets all of your preferences. In future years, you will have the opportunity to choose your own room via a ballot system.

Angel Court

Many freshers are accommodated in this area near Great Gate, in rooms above shops in Trinity Street. These rooms are mostly non-en-suite bedsits (single rooms), with a small number of sets.

A bedsit, with access to a shared bathroom and ‘gyp’ (basic kitchen).

Shared bathroom facilities in College will usually consist of separate shower and toilet rooms. Some staircases also have access to a bath.

College ‘gyp’ rooms are shared basic kitchens to allow for the preparation of simple meals and snacks. This Angel Court gyp room has a microwave and fridge, with counter space to prepare food and a sink for washing up. This gyp is typical of central College facilities.
Wolfson Building

The Wolfson Building is a dedicated fresher accommodation area, with single rooms in a modern building within Blue Boar Court. Most rooms here are en suite bedsits, however there are some cheaper non-en suite rooms available.

This Wolfson gyp room has a microwave, toaster, sink and fridge, as well as a full oven with hobs. Kitchens with full cooking facilities are the exception at Trinity, as most students will eat their main meals in Hall.

Blue Boar

This area is reached by climbing steps up from ground level, meaning that the ‘ground floor’ of Blue Boar is actually closer to first floor level from the streets below. There are several Fresher areas here; while some of these are en suite, the majority have shared bathroom facilities.

Shared facilities

Students in some Blue Boar areas will have access to full gyp rooms with ovens, similar to those in the Wolfson building. However, most gyp rooms here are more like the basic ones in Angel Court.
Undergraduate Rooms - Non-Fresher Areas

Bishop’s Hostel

Bishop’s Hostel is situated between Great Court and Garrett Hostel Lane. There are a few double sets for students who wish to share a living area, but the majority of rooms here are single sets. Many of these rooms have both a private gyp room and en suite bathroom. Bishop’s Hostel rooms are very popular at the top of the main ballot,

Blue Boar Court

Blue Boar Court is accessed through Whewell’s Court (the main entrance to which is opposite Great Gate). It is reached by climbing steps up from ground level, meaning that the ‘ground floor’ of Blue Boar is actually closer to first floor level from the street.

There is a mixture of accommodation here, with rooms available across a range of price bands. En suite and non-en suite rooms can be found, and this is the only area of College with baths in some of its en suite rooms. Basic gyp rooms are the norm; they will have a fridge and kettle plus a microwave and/or toaster (space dependent).

Rooms in staircases A-H Blue Boar are all similar in style. All of these rooms have an en suite bathroom; around 2/3 have a bath rather than a shower. This bedsit in D staircase has an en suite with bath.

Elsewhere in Blue Boar Court, the majority of rooms available in the main ballot have shared bathrooms. These Blue Boar bedsits fall into lower to mid-range room charges.
Burrell’s Field

Burrell’s Field is accessed through the Fellows’ Garden (over the river from central College). Rooms are available for current undergraduates via the main ballot (2nd, 3rd and 4th years). Rooms in Burrell’s Field are typically well-equipped, and many are en suite. Most rooms are arranged around staircases in purpose-built accommodation blocks or towers, but there are also four houses whose rooms have a more traditional feel. A short walk from the centre of Trinity, Burrell’s Field is particularly convenient for departments based along the backs, including those at the University’s Sidgwick Site.

Burrell’s Field Shared Facilities

Burrell’s Field has well-equipped shared facilities for its residents. Many kitchens have hobs for the preparation of occasional meals.

The Burrell’s Field houses (G, V, W, X) are large and pleasant, with communal cooking and dining areas for their residents. There are en suite rooms in every house, but some rooms here have shared bathroom facilities.
Rooms in Great Court are made available via the main ballot. The rooms do not have en suite facilities, but the setting within Trinity’s grand 16th-century court is appealing to those who like the traditional feel.

To allow as many undergraduates as possible the opportunity to experience a Great Court room (should they wish to), no student can live in Great Court for more than one year while at Trinity.

The majority of rooms in Great Court are non-en suite single sets, meaning rooms with a separate bedroom and main room. Most of these have a sink in the room.

There are a few double sets in Great Court. These rooms have 2 single bedrooms and a shared living room space.
Nevile’s Court

Nevile’s Court is an attractive 17th-century court in the centre of Trinity; on one side is the Great Hall, and on the other the Wren Library. A small number of rooms are available here for students via the main ballot, including some double sets.

New Court

New Court is a large 19th-Century courtyard between Great Court and the river Cam which was refurbished in 2015.

There is a mixture of accommodation here across all price bands. There are en suite and non en suite rooms of varying sizes with shared facilities on every staircase.

Pearce Hostel

Trinity has a number of rooms available for 2nd, 3rd and 4th year undergraduates in Pearce Hostel, a building on the other side of Whewell’s Court from central College. Rooms are all above street level, and situated in buildings between Jesus Lane and Bridge Street.

This is a single bedsit in Pearce Hostel with shared bathroom facilities. It is at the lower end of the rent range for College rooms.

A variety of accommodation types in Pearce Hostel means that rooms here will suit many different students. Full kitchens are provided for the preparation of more substantial meals.

Larger and/or en suite rooms in Pearce Hostel are more expensive.
Whewell’s Court

Many second- and third-year students choose to live in Whewell’s Court, an attractive 19th-century courtyard opposite the Great Gate entrance to Trinity. Rooms here are all non-en suite; they are predominantly single sets, with a handful of bedsits and some shared sets (for 2 students who wish to share a living room space).

The shared bathroom facilities are situated in the basement below the courts, and there is also a laundry here. A select number of Whewell’s Court rooms have their own personal mini-gyp rooms with a fridge, sink and food preparation area. Space-dependent, there will be a microwave and/or toaster in these rooms as well.

All Whewell’s Court rooms have shared bathroom facilities but the bedrooms are equipped with a washbasin.
