Trinity College was founded by Henry VIII in 1546 as part of the University of Cambridge. There are approximately 700 undergraduates, 375 graduates and over 180 Fellows. Staff number approximately 350, including full and part-time employees.

Trinity has the largest of the Cambridge College libraries, serving members of the College, in addition to a number of visiting researchers. The Library has important collections ranging in date from medieval manuscripts and early printed books housed in the Wren Library to the modern collections of the student library. There are also significant collections of modern manuscripts. The Library uses Innovative's Millennium library management system. There are fifteen members of library staff, and a team of postgraduate students who staff the library during the evenings and at weekends.

The primary aim of the Graduate Trainee post is to support the work of the library and prepare the trainee for a postgraduate course in library and information studies. Training and visits to other libraries within the city and University (Covid-permitting) are arranged. Regular contact with the other trainees in Cambridge is encouraged. The trainees are responsible for maintaining their own website, www.catalog.group.cam.ac.uk, which provides more information on the libraries, their trainees and the training available. The trainee will have the opportunity to work on a special project in the Wren Library.

The post involves a wide variety of work with both the undergraduate and the older collections. Specific responsibilities include:

• Assisting users at the undergraduate library issue/enquiry desk, at the reception desk in the Wren Library and at the special collections readers’ desk.

• Managing the Library’s extensive serials holdings including checking in, chasing missing issues and arranging the annual binding schedule.

• Routine responsibility for the smooth running of the Law Reading Room.

• Updating the Cambridge Trainee Librarians’ Online Group website in consultation with other Cambridge trainees.

• Helping with bibliographical checking, creation of order records, and cataloguing.

• Daily shelving of returned books.

• Fetching and shelving manuscript and printed book material for readers.

• Clerical routines: filing, labelling and photocopying.

• Contributing towards the social media presence of the library.

• Producing the Graduate Trainee’s report at the end of the year.
